I am in search of a man, myself.
Phaedrus

*Vain, very vain, my weary search to find
That bliss which centers only in the mind.*
Oliver Goldsmith

If any man can convince me and bring home to me that I do not think or act aright, gladly I change; for I search after truth, by which I never yet was harmed.

Marcus Aurelius Antoninus

His reasons are as two grains of wheat hid under two bushels of chaff; you shall seek all day long, and when you have them, they are not worth the search.

William Shakespeare

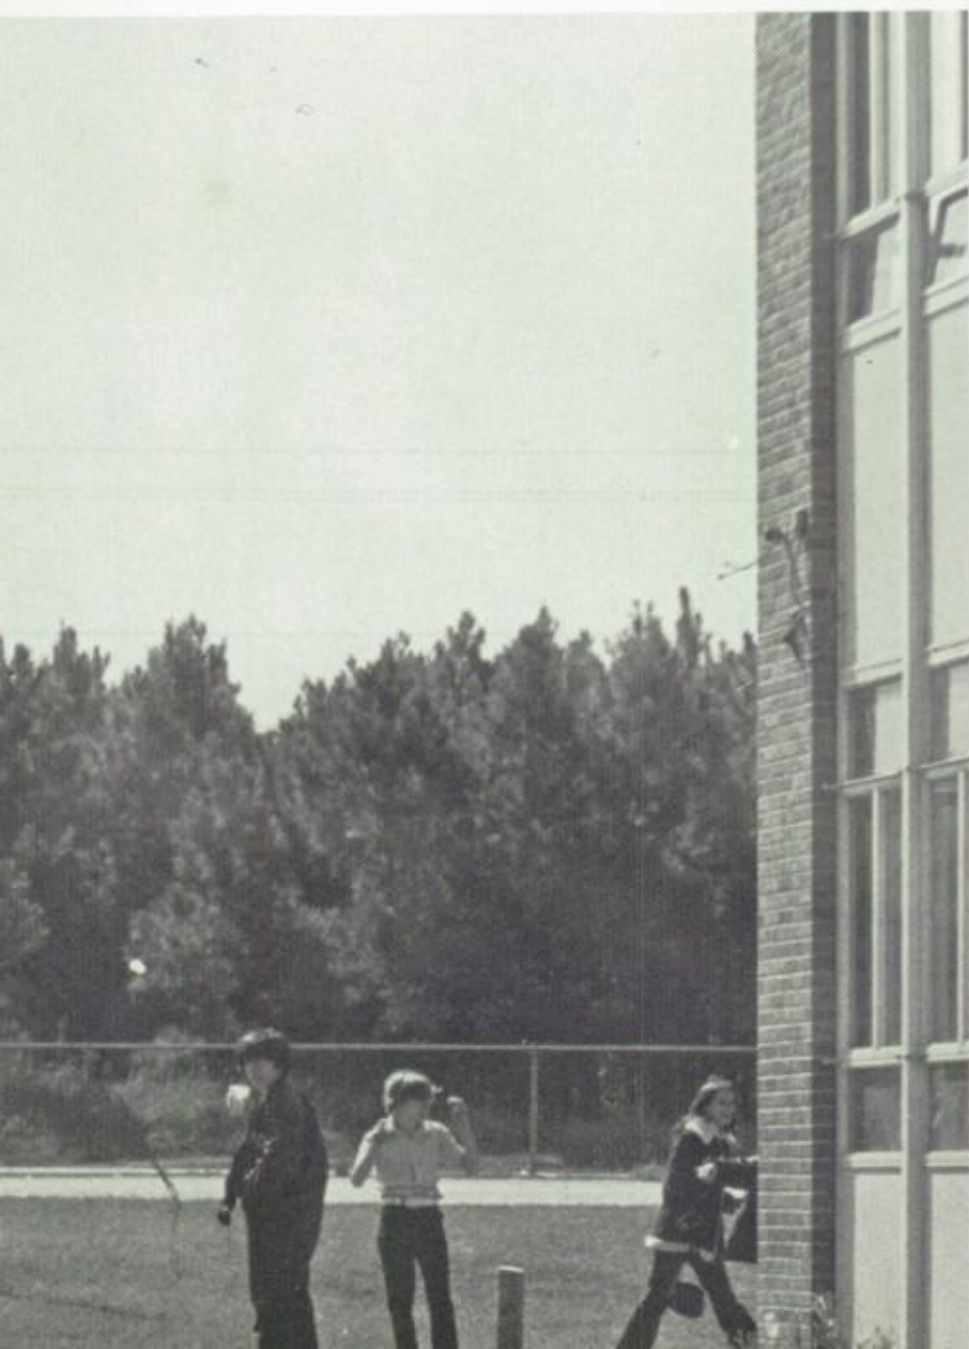

*tempt the end and never stand to doubt;
things so hard but search will find it out.*

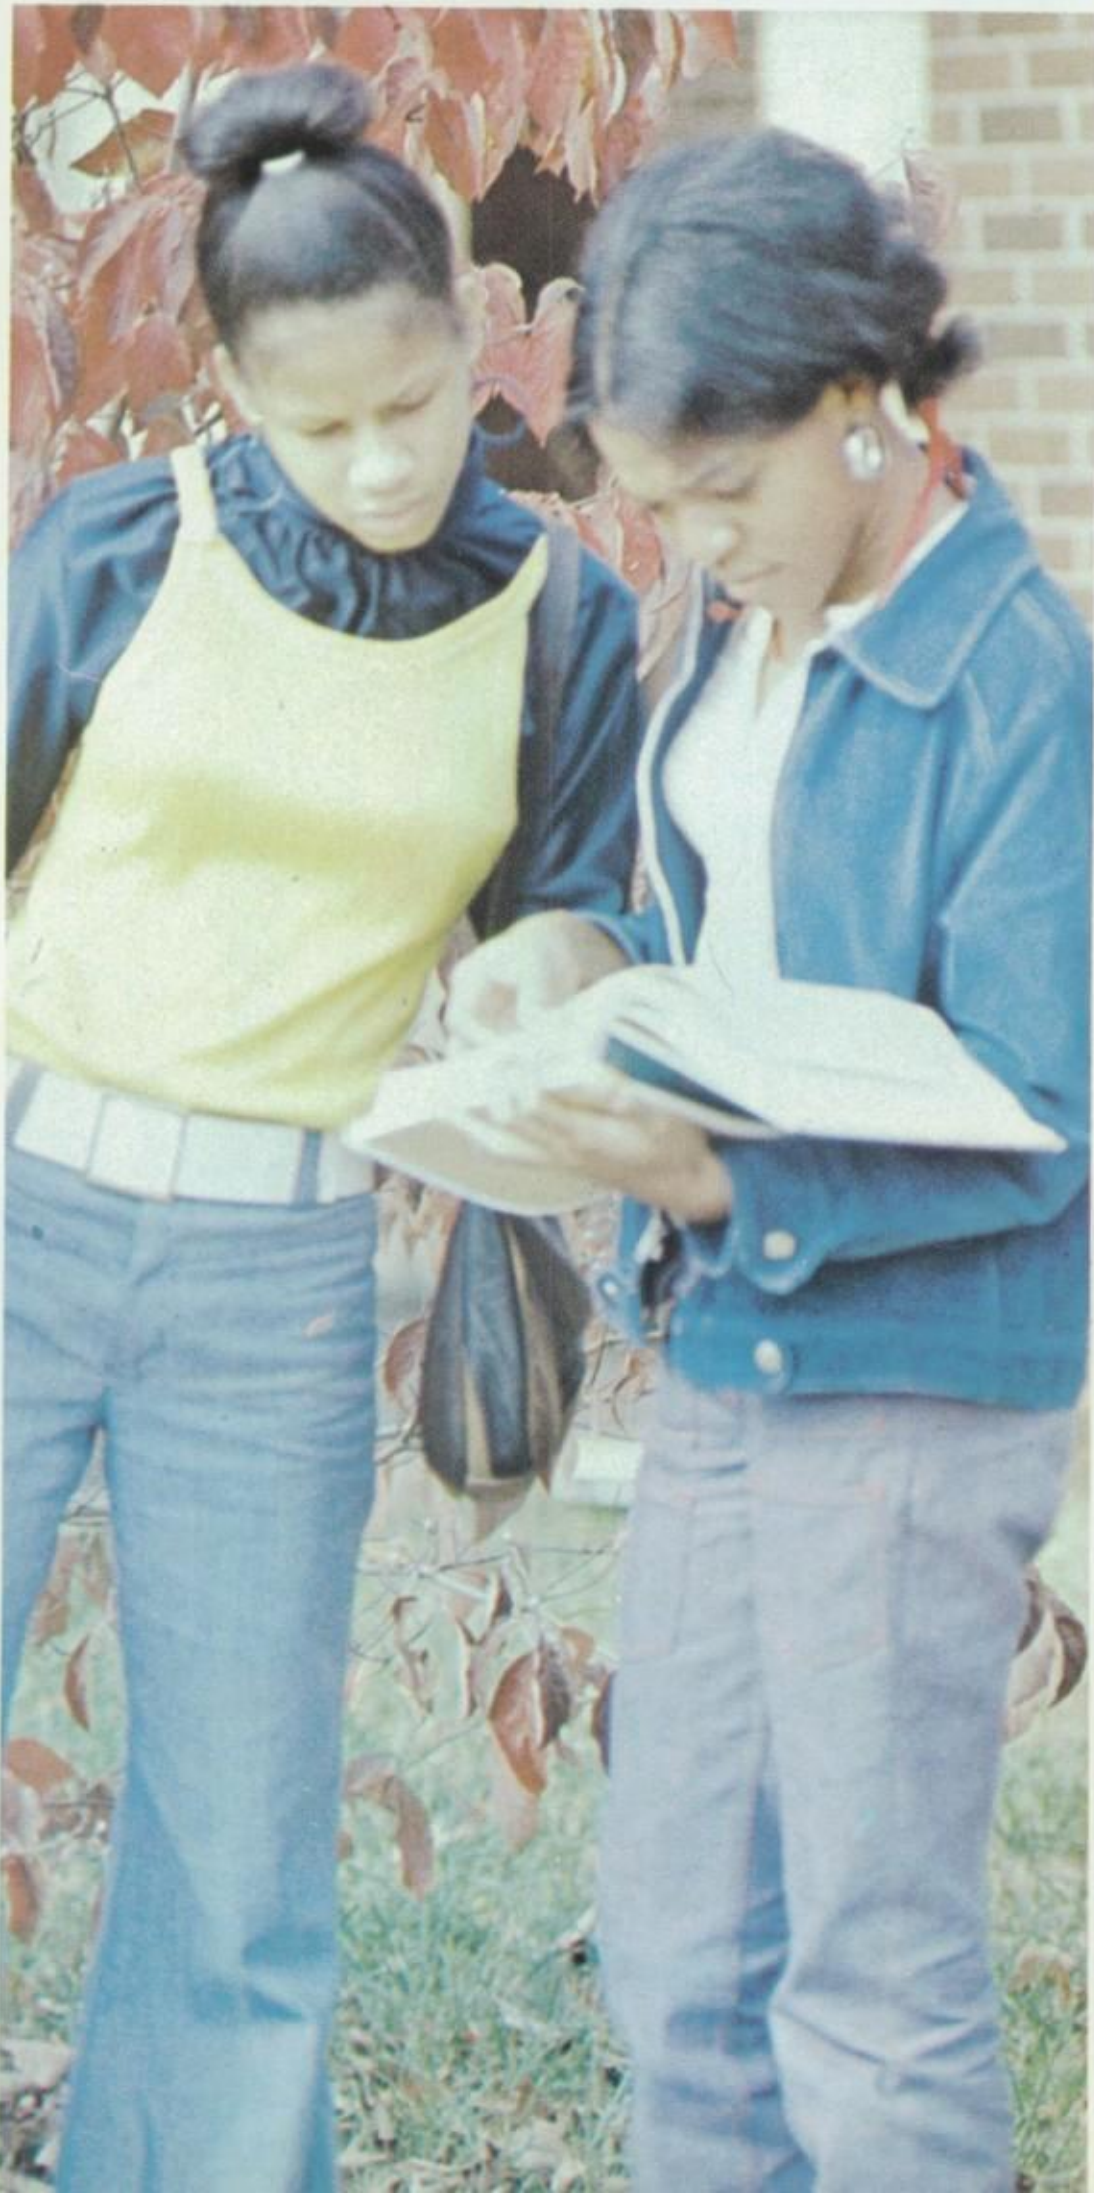

Robert Herrick

knock and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.

St. Matthew

A student's life is one of searching, for knowledge, acceptance, independence and security. Driven by parents, teachers and self, he strives to accomplish goals which only he knows. He meets encouragement and frustration in the search which, although begun in childhood, will eventually lead to success or failure in the real world. The school hopes to provide him with a few answers, so that when his time comes to face reality, he will be better able to cope with the problems confronting him. The search, however, will never end, for he will never know all the answers.

This is what we have found in our look at J. L. Mann, 1972-'73.

student life

Student life begins and ends with students. We "begin" each day where we have ended another day." Every day whether they are aware of it or not, they continue their search for themselves and life. And student life is only one part of that search.

A mass of people are searching. They can be seen in the noisy confusion of a cafeteria and in the vacuous solitude of an empty hall during class. They can be found playing a game of chess or viewing a pep rally. Each is looking for something different. They are as separated from each other as they are from their adult counterpart yet they have a bond that is uniquely its own. They are students; and in the hectic, sometimes harrowing experience of school life they become a mass searching for fulfillment.

KILGORE RECEIVES FROSH PRESIDENCY

Phillip Kilgore, speaking for the freshman class, anticipates high school years to be "some of the best of our lives," and is "glad to finally be in high school."

This year nearly 400 freshmen came to Mann from Beck and other middle or junior high schools. For the first time, these students were given the full responsibilities and privileges of high school. With the increased freedom a senior high school allows, ninth graders practice making decisions independently.

The "Baby Patriots" encountered many new courses and began earning credits towards graduation. One new arrangement at Mann was the physical science-

Anna Rhodes
Treasurer

physical education block for freshmen. Each class, lasting two hours, met two to three days a week.

Ninth graders were given the opportunity to join clubs and become involved in school activities. Boys could participate in sports through C-team football, wrestling, basketball, and soccer.

Overall, the class of 1976 has found their first year at Mann to be an exciting experience with many new adventures and opportunities.

Freshmen speak out:

What do you like most about Mann? Least?

First, I like the unity of the student body. No one shows any real prejudice; no violence between blacks and whites as a whole. I least like the low school spirit. We have a tendency to complain but not to accomplish. We criticize the school when it's really us, because the school is what we make it.

— Loretta Goldsmith

What I like most about Mann is the freedom of communication. Most of the students' ideas are listened to, and many changes which improve our school come from these ideas. We are given rights so we can take an active part in school affairs. When students abuse them its hard on everybody else, but we don't let that bring us down. I think Mann is the greatest, and I'm proud to be a part of it.

— Amy James

The thing I like most is the people. They are usually care-free and happy. They listen to each other. However, I dislike the lack of discipline. Together students and faculty should make a set of rules that would apply to everyone. But all around I think Mann is a great school.

— Joan Pellett

I like the school activities, such as basketball, football, dances, beauty pageants, and especially the people who participate to make them successful. I like least the people who don't care and give no support to our school. Student support is essential to a great school.

— Caroline Coward

I really like the sports. It's fun to watch a good game with friends. If more people came to the games school spirit would be better, I dislike the senior privileges. Not only is it unfair to others, but it is also rude to break into the lunch line without being asked by a friend.

— Timothy Reeves

I finally learned that there was in me

1. Ninth graders are caught by the camera at their orientation the first day of school. 2. Patti Boyter listens attentively as experimental procedures are explained. 3. Freshmen displayed an abundance of spirit this year, as shown in this picture. 4. Susie Brothers, delighted at the day's end, prepares to go home. 5. Ricky Burnette and Robin Ulmer take advantage of longer lunch periods. 6. Harold McKinney and Cynthia Bridger brave cold weather to watch the Patriots' game. 7. Tracy Hembree and Andy Henderson listen to Mrs. Borenstein as she explains the fundamentals of math.

SHAW INSPIRES SOPHS' SPIRIT

"Working together, I feel that our sophomore class can achieve great goals," remarked Paige Shaw, president of the sophomore class. "We hope to increase school spirit and show we have a great class."

Nearly 300 sophomores attended J. L. Mann this year, full of spirit and vitality. They raised money to help meet responsibilities for their junior year, sponsoring various fund-raising attempts including the sale of sweat shirts and buttons. Sophomore projects such as cleaning the parking lot and planting trees, grass and flowers contributed to the beauty of the school-grounds.

Traci Henderson
treasurer

Along with academic responsibilities, sophomores helped to increase school spirit through extracurricular activities. For the first time, sophomore boys had the privilege of participating in varsity sports. Membership in various clubs and committees increased sophomore awareness in school affairs.

Determination and pride is sensed in this comment by Beth Merline: "I think we've got the best sophomore class ever and I'm proud of it."

Sophomores speak out:

Should boys be required to get their hair cut to participate in school sports?

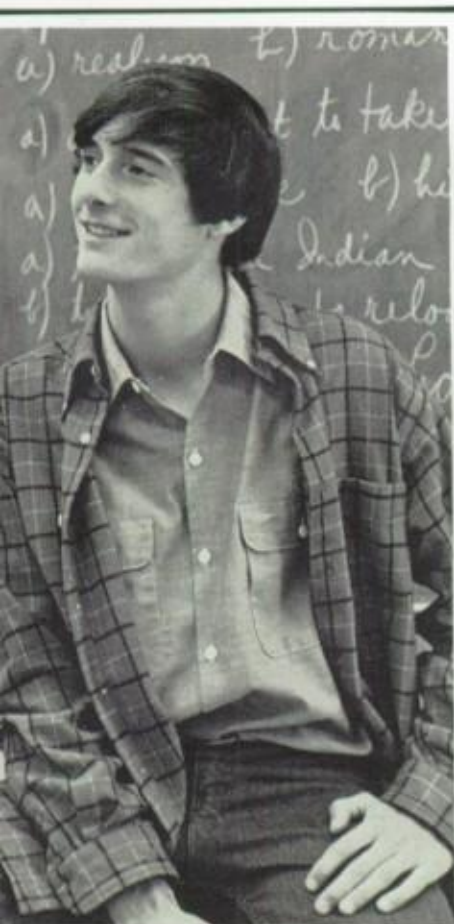

No. I think it should be left up to the individual as to how long he wants his hair. If it interferes with his playing he should cut or control it on his own initiative. I see no reason for coaches to require extremely short haircuts because it does nothing to benefit the team.

— Randy Chapman

I agree that short hair does not enable a person to perform better in sports. Hair length has nothing to do with ability. However, if he hesitates in going out for a sport because of the haircut, the sport becomes less important than his hair, and he won't give his best.

— George Morgan

This tiring subject is brought up annually, but it's not the athletes causing the dispute. You've got to be dedicated in anything. If a person's hair is so important that it stops him from competing, he doesn't belong with those willing to sacrifice.

— Bobby Bell

I don't believe any boy should be required to cut his hair to participate in a school sport. If he feels he can't play well in the sport with a lot of hair he should cut it, but only on his own free will. If he can play well with his hair long, he should be given a chance to perform.

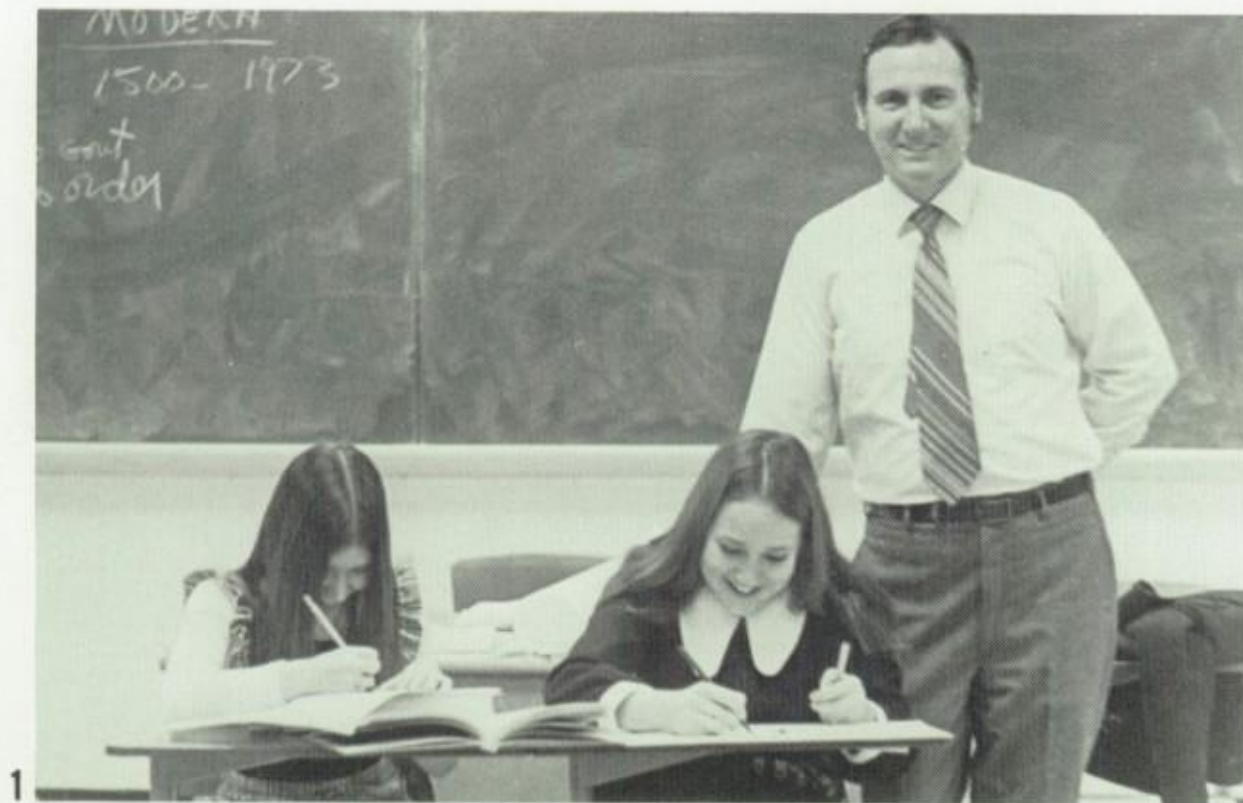

— Rita Mansell

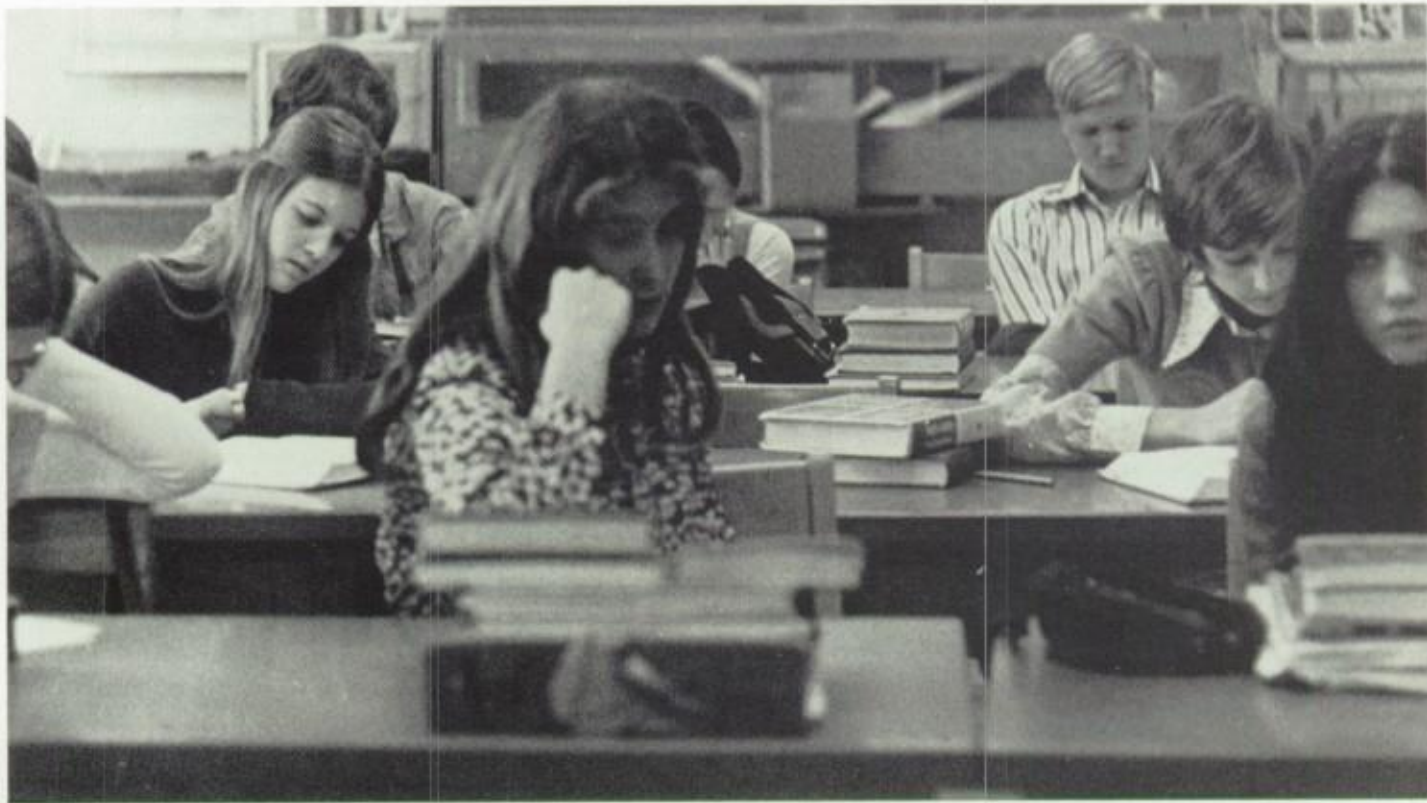

I don't think a boy's haircut makes him a good or poor athlete. But the rule, being an athletic requirement, must be complied with. All sports demand a combination of qualities. Love for the sport and determination to do well are essential for an excellent athlete.

— Vicki Pace

Academic activities create new interests for students

1. Mary Freeman and a friend discuss history with Mr. Landrum. 2. Dean Gaulden enjoys her lunch period. 3. Kathy Sullivan smiles at the camera. 4. Susan Johnson and a group of sophomores study science in Mr. Gilchrist's class. 5. Judy Westmoreland and Terrie Huggins listen and respond to their Spanish teacher. 6. Sophomores talk and laugh during lunch with their friends. 7. Joan Adcock prepares classwork for Spanish. 8. Tim Williams studies in the library. 9. Caron Wilson relaxes while listening to her teacher. 10. Cathy Cloud and friends participate in history.

1. Mitchell Spann and Richard Heard enjoy their lunch period doing various things. 2. Sophomores take advantage of the courtyard during lunch. 3. Debra Spillers and Cindy Ramminger talk with her friends between classes. 4. Lisa Carlson takes time to relax between classes. 5. Pam Griggs seems startled as she prepares for another school day. 6. Before homeroom students get a chance to visit with each other. Rambert Lee smiles at a friend's remark. 7. Kenneth Hagood is caught by the camera as he goes to his next class.

STONE CALLS JRS "EAGER, UNIFIED"

"We've definately got the most spirited, unified, determined class that's ever been through J. L. Mann," said Terri Stone, president of the junior class as the year began; it took all of these qualities to stage the event of the year — a successful junior-senior.

Juniors enjoyed searching for new ways to make the 1973 junior-senior the best yet. Mrs. Virginia Vanstory, teacher of tenth and eleventh grade English, and Mr. Walter Cox, U.S. history teacher, were class sponsors.

The homecoming committee, headed by members of the junior class, worked under the direction of Terri Stone. Decorations were unique, as was the music. The Pastels, a group from Charlotte, North Carolina, showed their versatility, catering to the student's many different tastes.

To raise money for the prom the class for the first time sponsored the Miss Talismann pageant. With the profit from homecoming and the pageant, the juniors raised enough money to stage a successful dance.

Advanced students had many different opportunities for courses this year. Some chose to study English III-B-U.S. history and chemistry-physics, two-hour courses offered for the first time. Ten percent of the junior class was inducted into the NHS because of their outstanding academic record and leadership qualities.

Juniors speak out:

Considering the controversies at Munich, should future olympics be cancelled?

I really do not think future Olympics should be cancelled. I know that there were a lot of controversies at Munich with the killings, and the problem of the basketball game between the U.S. and Russia. But I think with all the corruption and mishaps it is no reason to stop the Olympics. I think we should mainly get a better state of communications and better official authority over games.

— Richard Carson

No, I don't really think the Olympic games should be done away with. They're too important to be stopped completely. Although it was a horrible experience I think we ought to try it again. There should be maximum security as far as the Olympic village is concerned and also sufficient police forces on the grounds throughout the event.

— Ross Young

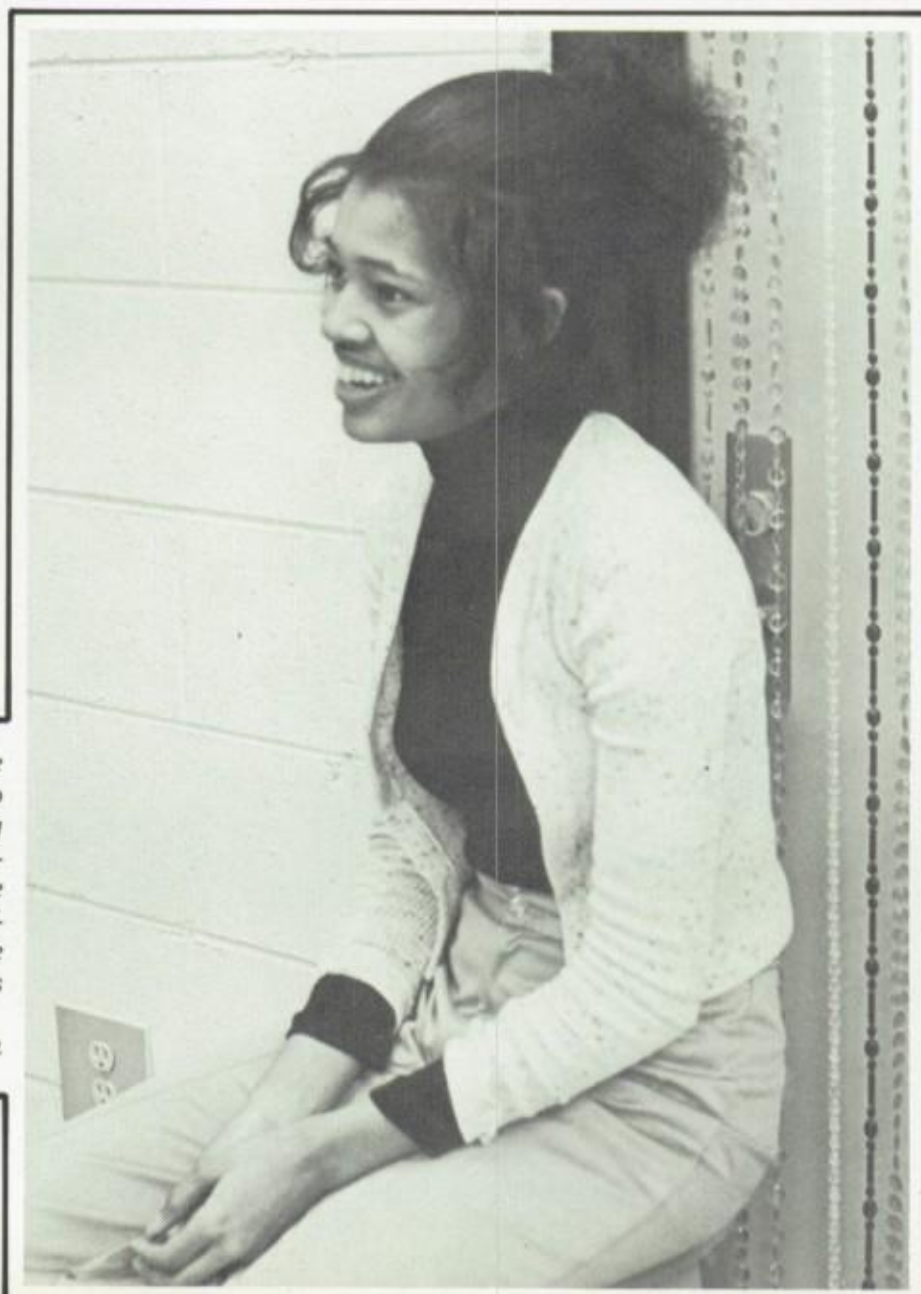

No, the Olympic games were in no way responsible for the controversies. The people involved in these controversial incidents are only depicting ideas already expressed in their own country. Stopping the Olympics could be like punishing an innocent child.

—Mary Dayhood

No, these games have led us to a better understanding of other countries and their ways of life and stopping the games would in no way help us. When we have trouble in school, we don't close it down; we just try a little harder. I think the Olympics should do the same thing.

— McCree Staton

No, the Olympics should not be cancelled. It would not be fair to the athletes who have been waiting to participate in an event to be deprived of the opportunity. The Olympics is an event where different cultures can exchange customs and views. Maybe this is one way of getting peace.

CARTER GUIDES CLASS OF 1973

In one sense, seniors have completed their search. Twelve years of required schooling have ended and about 280 students have graduated. Some have been counting the days from orientation to graduation, while others, having attended Mann for six years, have become attached to it. In any case, J. L. Mann has shoved 280 people from their nests into the world. Each will begin another search by deciding where to go and what to do with his life.

As the last year in high school, 1973 has been an exceedingly good one. The past nine months were stuffed with such activities as senior recognition day, the powderpuff football game, College Night, the senior class play "See How They Run" and finally graduation. Sports-minded seniors played on varsity teams and others held offices on committees and in organizations.

Rick Rountree
treasurer

Some seniors coasted through classes, while others felt SAT's and college acceptance breathing down their necks. After graduation, the search for most will be easier because of the experiences and encounters during high school. The end of one search is merely the beginning of another.

Seniors speak out:

Has your education at J. L. Mann adequately prepared you for the future?

I feel that my six years at Mann have not only given me the education I will need but also through sports and other activities I have become a well-balanced person. When I leave Mann I will be well-prepared for life. This is what a high school should do.

— Peter Rizzo

While at Mann I have been taught by some of the most dedicated teachers and I have been given a wide variety of subjects to study. Besides helping me academically, Mann has introduced me to a group of people whom I will always remember. I feel that my education is adequate and I am confident that I will succeed in the outside world.

— Jane Gwinn

Yes, and I am proud of it. My experiences at Mann have improved my relations with the whites. It helped me in preparing for the outside world in more ways than one. The more we understand our fellow man, the better the world will be for all.

— Tommie Lee Suber

My experiences at J. L. Mann have led me to a better understanding of other people as well as of myself. Learning to get along with others is what life is all about. If I have helped someone or if I have come closer to this goal, my education has been more than adequate.

— Polly Duncan

My education at J. L. Mann has given me the credibility I will need and a new outlook on life in general. Without my education, I could not possibly cope with future conflicts.

— James Perkins

*1973 seniors recognized;
rings capture memories*

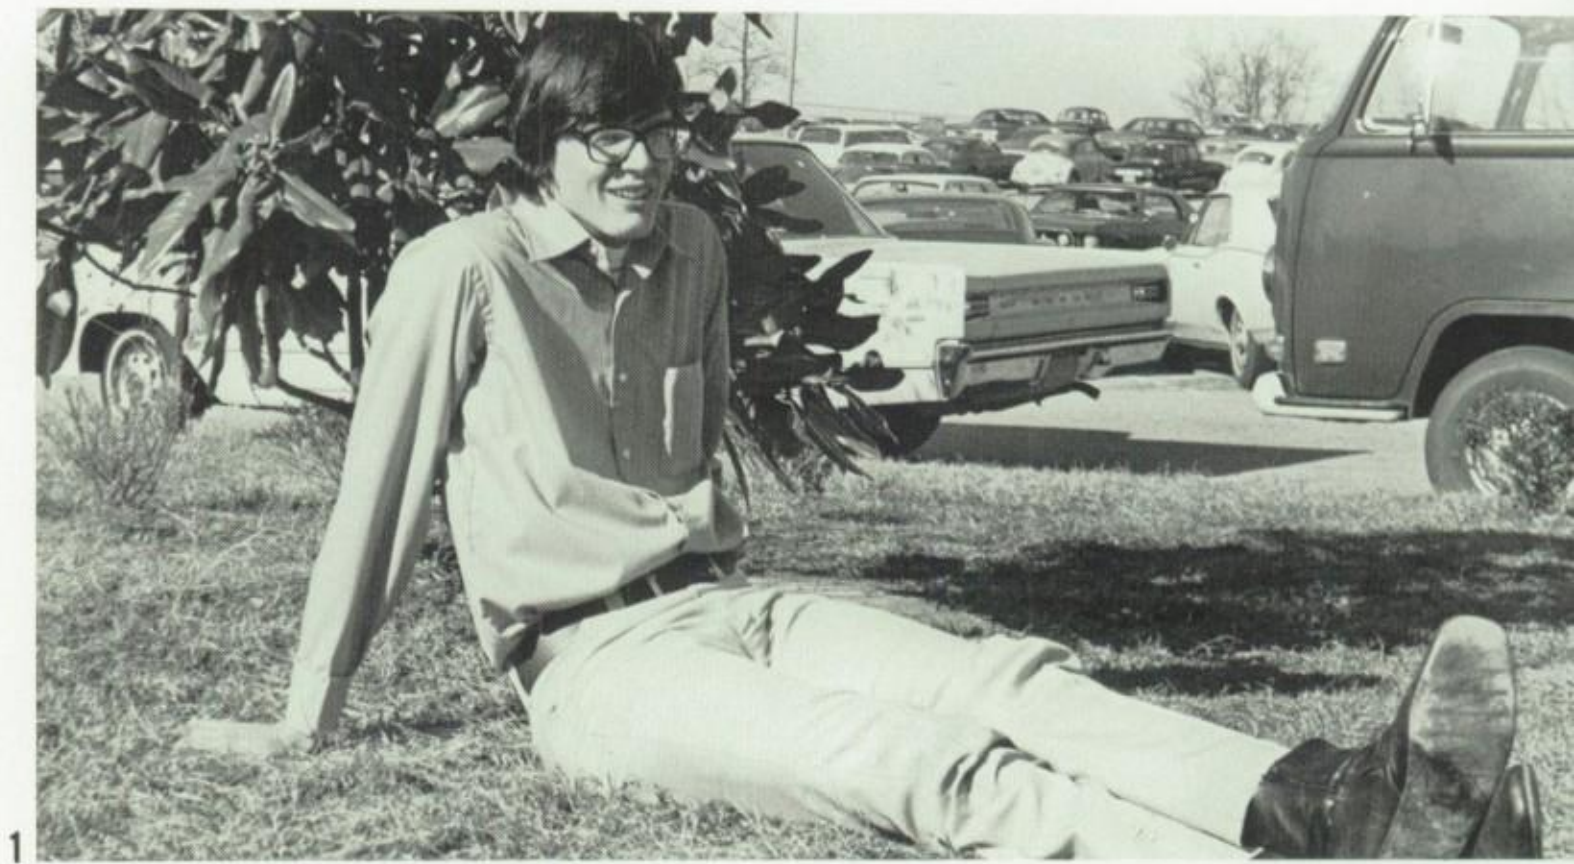

5

In addition to the usual distribution of senior rings, this year's ring ceremony was expanded to include the recognition of the 285 students comprising the senior class. 1. Congratulating Isaac Yeargin on being a senior, Mr. Diehl extends a friendly handshake. 2. A crowd of anxious seniors watches the final preparations before the assembly begins. Senior class president John Carter led the class in a count to 73 after which they could put on their rings. 3. Janet Bowan and Dawn Bracken wait for this count to start. 4. As Lamar Castles concentrates on the activities on stage, Lynn Boles slyly warns Roger Cartee not to put his ring on yet. 5. Receiving her ring from Mr. Diehl, Donna Mills officially becomes a senior. 6. The talk of past years and school memories takes Becky Bishop and Ed Cansler back to memorable times of their own. 7. Having told Mr. Diehl that she has received the wrong ring, Vera Sullivan exchanges it for another one from Kay Hembree.

Hall of Fame boasts outstanding students

The Hall of Fame was established by early yearbook staffs to reward students who have received a school honor which would otherwise have been unrecognized. Many of the members of the 1973 Hall of Fame are National Merit Finalists and Furman Scholars. Both of these titles are awarded to students with outstanding scholastic aptitude. The National Merit Finalists from Mann are 1. Barry Sweiger and 2. Bill DeLoache. This year's Furman Scholars are 2. Bill DeLoache, 3. Davida Mathis, 4. Mimi Gordon, and 5. Steve Brown.

Wide variety of activities merit membership into Hall of Fame

Department chairmen pick eight superlatives

4

1. Winner of the Betty Crocker Cooking Contest, Evelyn Conwell greases a pan in preparation for a new dish she is planning to make. 2. The athletic department at Mann chose Mark Wells as the outstanding athlete of the year for his competence and versatility in sports. Two final members of the 1973 Hall of Fame are 6. Stanley Clinkscale and 7. Steve Brown, who were elected by the senior class at Mann to represent the school at Wofford College's King Teen Scholarship Program, which awards scholarships up to $2,000. Each academic department at Mann chooses as a superlative, the student who has held the highest grade point average in that department for at least three years. Representing the various areas of study are 3. Jane Gwinn, for the foreign language department, 4. William Pryor as the science superlative and 5. Vicki Surratt from the home economics department.

Grade point averages determine selection of senior superlatives

1

5

1. Kathy Merrill, superlative from the math department, works on the last step of a complicated graph. 2. Before presenting an oral report to the class, Mimi Gordon, the English department's superlative, types the notes she will use. 3. For her exceptional talent and continuous work, Sally McKinney ranks as the superlative in the art department. 4. Lynn Boles, superlative from the music department, plays an original composition. 5. Having the highest grade point average in his history and social studies classes, Steve Brown represents that department as the superlative.

6

1. Billy Burns looks over last year's yearbook with a friend. 2. Billy Walker addresses the senior class at a recent assembly. 3. Julius Smith finds library material simply amazing. 4. Last minute additions to an English paper capture Curry King's interest. 5. Football games are a time for enthusiasm for Adele Cleveland and 6. Kathy Bryson, Ellis Robertson, and Lori Byrd. 7. Beth Slattery tries her hand at balloon blowing for homecoming.

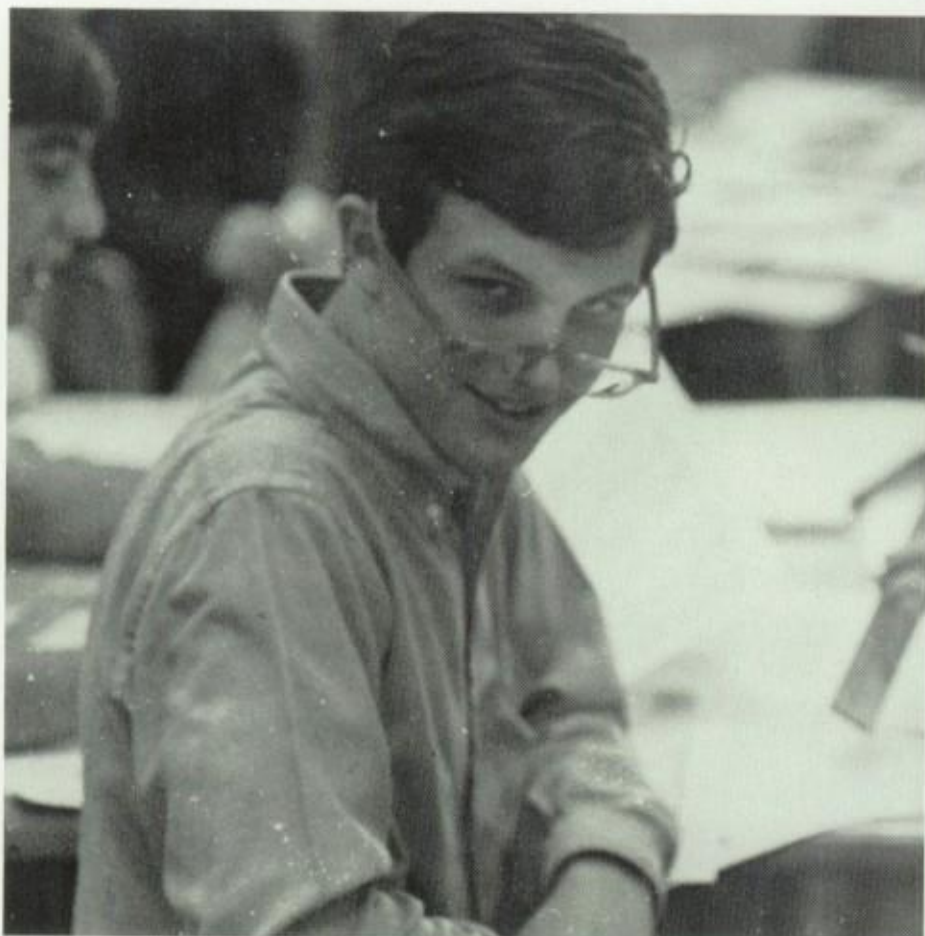

*Preparations for future
entails diligent study*

4

Variety of activities engage senior interests

1

1. Bill DeLoache shoots a harrowing look at the Talismann staff. 2. During a sudden fire Kathy Bryson discusses the possible causes with several friends. 3. An added attraction around school is London, a siberian huskie. Here he discusses the lunch with Vicki Suratt and friends. 4. Pam Crowe starts off the day in a positive way with a smile. 5. Kay Hembree gives it her all in Algebra III. 6. Ruby Chapman, Shirley Woods, and Patricia Wilson socialize before school.

Senior girls have active school life to remember

1. Seniors Kay Hembree, Rachel Fleming, and Curry Thrailkill work with balloons for the Homecoming Dance. 2. Rebecca Choice and Vickie Jenkins discuss the mornings happenings between classes. 3. Ellis Robertson thinks happily of the night's football game.

Organizations

With more extra-curricular activities added to the already varied list, students were able to work in areas of specific interest. Original programs and activities added spice to the routine of high school life.

Student body officers for 1972-1973 are: 1. Mimi Wyche, vice-president; 2. Mark Wansley, treasurer; 3. Mary Dayhood, secretary and 4. Steve Brown, president. 5. Doug Mills addresses a meeting of the student council. 6. Steve Brown, president of the student body, looks on as Mark Wells speaks to the council.

Brown, Wyche administer student government affairs

Students form committees to plan yearly activities

5

1. Rene Foster and Vernetta Fuller participate in black history week program sponsored by the human relations committee. 2. Bonita Griffen, Margaret Richardson, Fred Hammonds, Janice Caldwell, Davida Mathis and Rachael Dirton listen to a speech during the black history week assembly. 3. Pam Wilson listens attentively to the elections committee's plan. 4. Pam McCullough, Bonita Griffin and Janice Caldwell dance to music provided in the black history week program. 5. Counting votes is one of the major duties of the elections committee. As members, Jane Hudson and Terri Tipton help. 6. Barbara Houston signs to help with upcoming elections as Kris Leininger looks on. 7. Alan Trim, Paul Smith and Mike Mixon set up the slide projector for an assembly. They are members of the assembly committee. 8. Joanie Shaluly helps count votes.

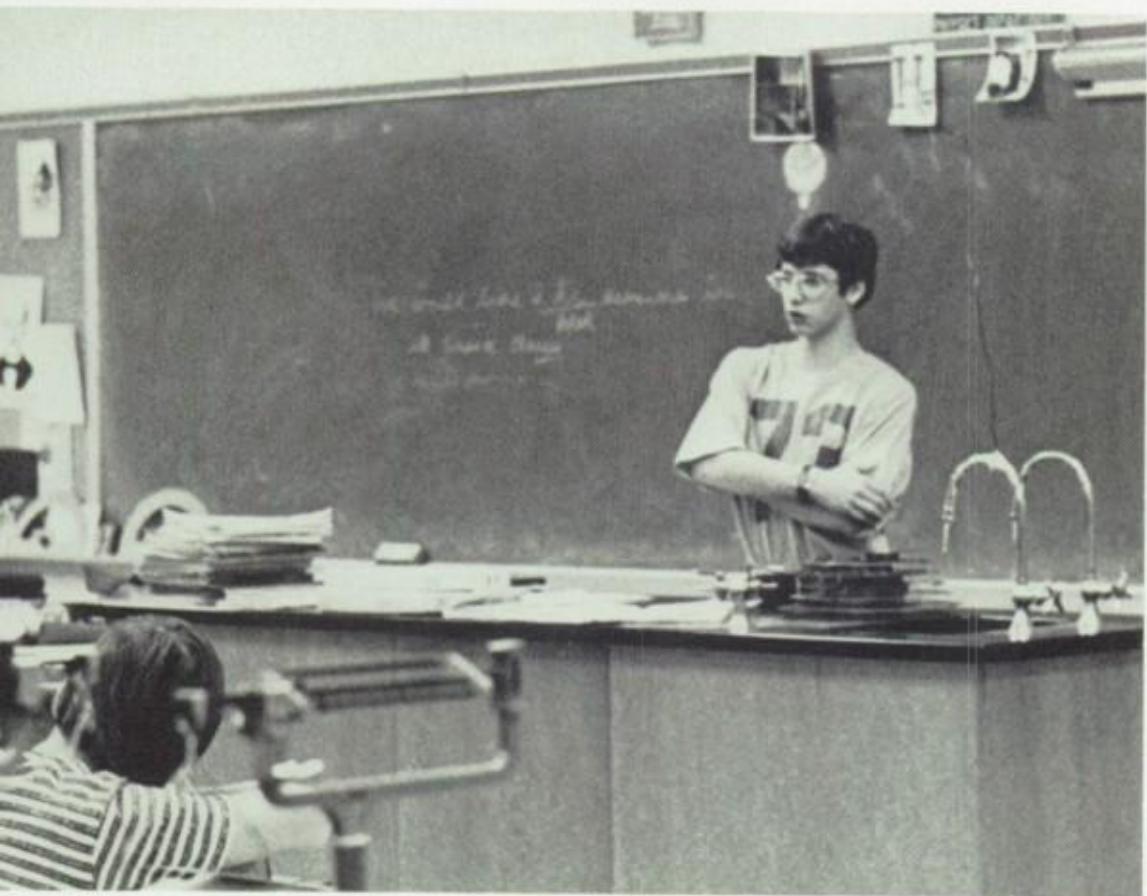

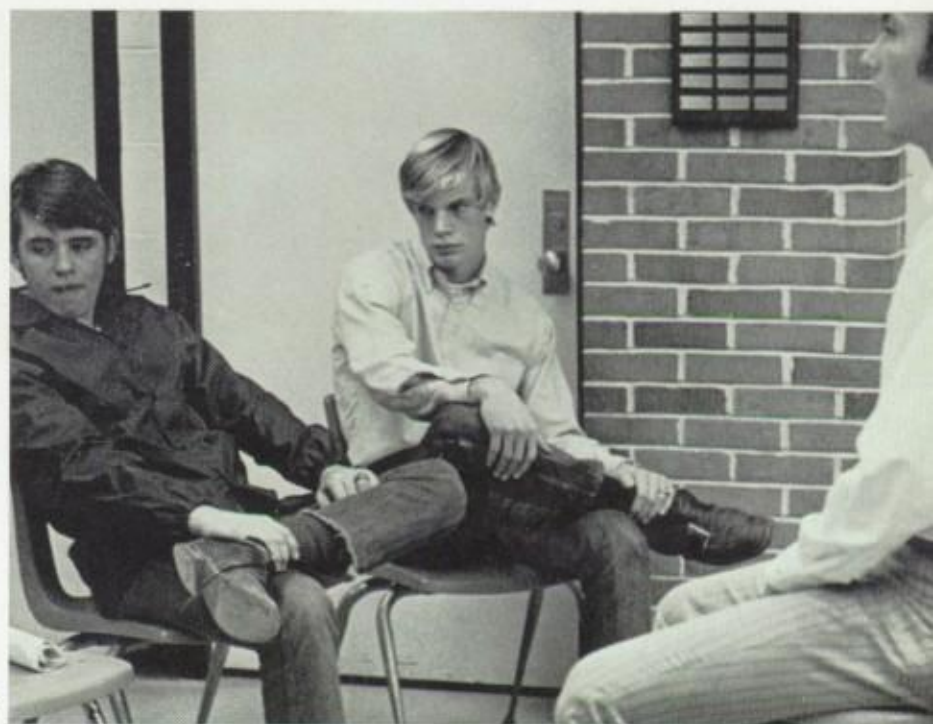

*Students enroll in clubs;
pursue fields of interest*

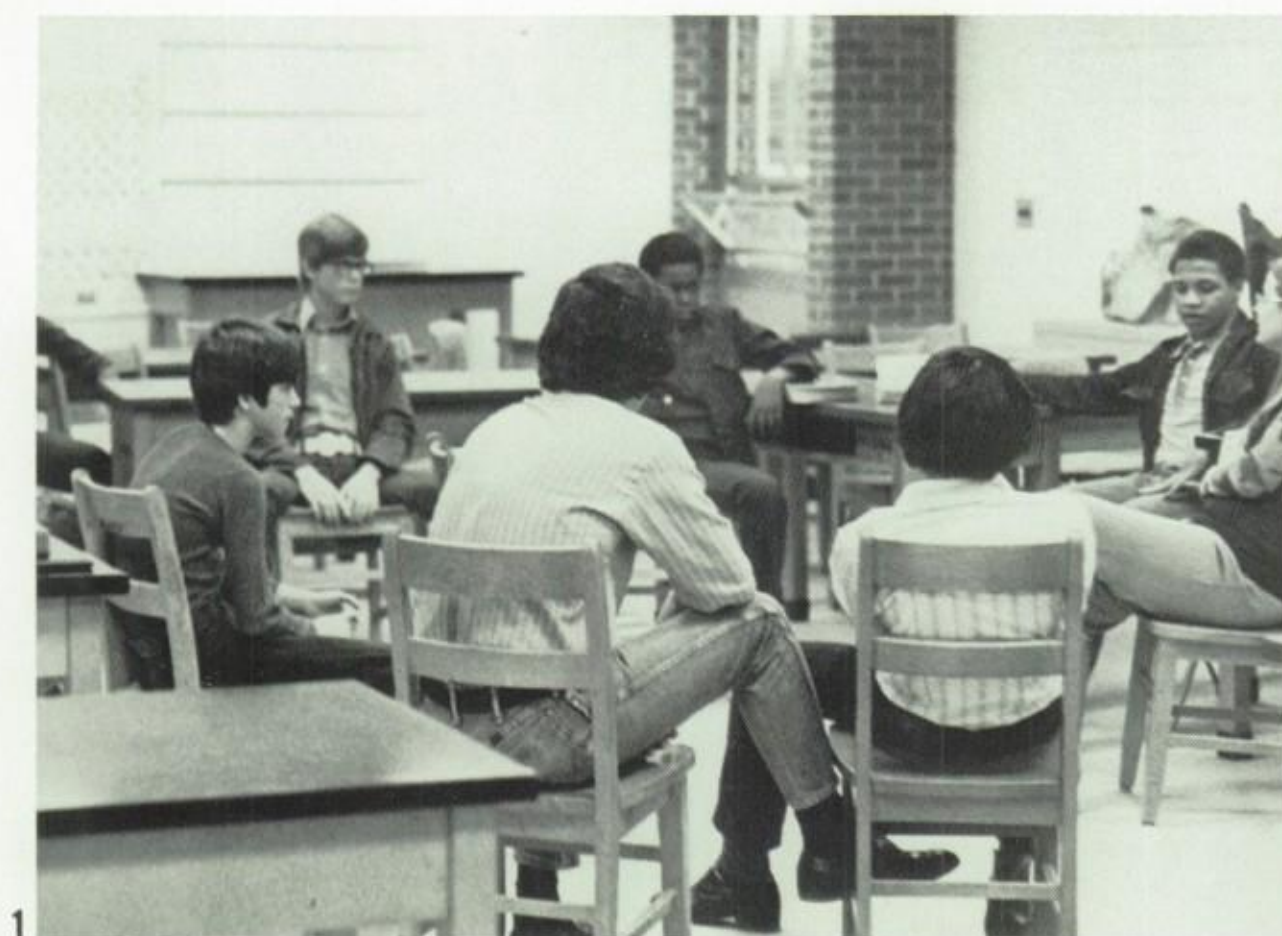

1. At an Art club meeting, members watch Jeanet Dreskin demonstrate the use of a silk screen. 2. Mrs. Charlotte Richardson is the leader of one of the many rap sessions at Mann. 3. *"Who are you?"
Me? Why I'm me.
"How do you know?"
Know? I just know.
"Who told you so?"
Nobody told me so. I just know.
"Know what?"
That I'm me.
"Why do you say that?"
Because it's the truth.
"Whose truth?"
My truth.
"But how do you know your truth is right?"
Because it is right.
"Is my truth right?"
I guess so.
"But if my truth is different from your truth, can they both be right?"
Yes.
"How?"
Because your existence forms your truth,
and my existence forms mine.
"So this is your truth?"
No, it is relevant to everyone.
"How so?"
Because you and I not only exist, we coexist.
"So?"
So your truth and my truth, although different are the same.*

Perfect Love

Perfect love transcends the finite dimesions of human thought; only a microcosm of its inestimable power exists in men's hearts. Perfect love is not an emotion but a being; an eternal eclipse of hate.

You Ask Me

You ask me what I need, but when I reply, your ears are deaf. You ask me my opinions and when I give them, you do not hear because you chatter among yourselves.

You ask my beliefs and when I tell you, you call me radical or communist. You question my very being, and when I dare to answer you will not understand. How can I explain what I am?

A Child Was Born

A child was born one day, one day,
In a mansion large and dim.
The child grew up one day, one day
With happiness around him.

A child was born one day, one day,
In a ghetto cold and gray.
The child grew up one day, one day,
With problems abounding.

A man met a problem one day, one day,
In his mansion large and dim.
Something never seen before
And a man died, he died.

A man saw problems everyday, everyday,
In his ghetto cold and grey and life stayed . . .

A child is born.

Treasure Iodine

Long John Silver Nitrate was in the barium having a few when he was discussing his next expedition. "Argon," he said, "we're going in search of treasure." Another man asked where. "If you find out, I'll cut out tungsten so you can't tellerium anyone." Long John Silver Nitrate was rutheniumless.

Little Jack Helium was hydrogening inside a beryllium on board ship and overheard plans to mutate! He told Long John Silver Nitrate who said, "Good work, me lead, but it sounds silicon to me. I'll keep an iron them and if anything does happen, I'll carbon them up with me knife and neon them in the gut. Ill stop them gold. They must have a lot of gallium."

Jack Helium went to the zinc and washed up for dinner. First, he had to do his deuterium, so he took the bromine and swept the flourine. For dinner, they had roast terium, mashed potassium, and corn on the cobalt. An old salt told a story which was very boron, and Long John Silver Nitrate said, "Shut up or else I'll kick you in the arsenic. Let's all get more cerium. I'm strontium and I mean bismuth." In saying this he almost threw a temper tantulum and the entire crew had to sulfur.

A Pencil Sketching on Life

Working diligently all day, I receive little gratitude for my accomplishments, and the slightest error I commit is erased from existence. My beautiful, long slender body is slowly wasting away, and tiredness weighs me down as if I were filled with lead. I am marked; chewed by the suppressed impatience of man. I am used, first by one, then by another; a slut in a ditch of despair. In my wordly escapades I am retrieved from some dark, obscure corner only to be used, then flung carelessly away, into the jumbles of man's superfluous trifles. The little contentment I humbly solicit of life is to just once ride high in the pocket of security, to peer out at an unfrowning world, and to soak up the rays of the summer's sun. But it is the autumn of my life and not long before my day is done. Ah, such is the life of a pencil . . . .

For The Last Time

(A man sits on a large rock on the beach. He is watching the waves as they come up to the shore.) "Here I am, all alone. I am free from the city. Now I can relax and be my true self." (A sea gull flies toward the man and perches beside him.) "Hello, friend, I'm glad you have joined me. It is always nice to be with a friend you can talk to. What's that? Yes, it has been a long time since the last time I was here. Yes, I know I used to come here every weekend. I enjoyed the good times we had talking and walking through the sand. Why has it been so long? I have had to work hard recently. Next week I will become the president of my company. Thank-you. Every weekend I have had to entertain top executives. Their idea of good entertainment is not a pleasant walk along the beach. How did I manage to get away today? I called the office and said I was not feeling well. I just couldn't go to that place. I had to get away. Will I be here next week? No, I doubt it. The next? I really don't think so. Oh, you have to be going now? Well, okay, so long." (As the gull flies away the man waves good-by.) "Good-by, friend. I have enjoyed knowing you. I wish I could be like you — free to fly away." (The man turns to walk back up the hill. He looks at the sky. He can no longer see the gull. As he walks past the "For Sale" sign in front of his cottage, his eyes become filled with tears. The man realizes he will never see his friend or see the sea again. He will never see his real self again.)

Untitled

Alone,
In infinite silence
I wait for you.
The barriers of thought
Have encompassed me.
No one will penetrate them.
They wait till I can Reach them with an
Outstretched hand,
A hand which is guided
By my inner needs.
I fly,
Soaring above all.
The world has cast me out.
My mind is no longer
Caught in a haze
Of reality,
But buried deep
In the thoughts
I have saved.
Slowly, time passes by,
But I still have no
Time to reach you.
I feel you,
But I know that you're not here.
I can see through
The tunnel in my mind.
The world that was
Once real to me,
Near to me,
Turns into a confusion
Of dreams and thoughts.
A never-ending band
Of time.

Interior Monologue

A small baby who is in his crib . . .

Well, here she comes again. Bath time. Maybe this time, just maybe, she won't try to drown me. Parents are always trying to knock kids off. They have so many methods of attempted murder on us poor infants. Here I am locked up in this four-sided box of prison bars, with enough gadgets to knock off Superman. If she doesn't drown me, there's always a chance I might break my neck on one of those things they buy as toys. Why, I almost choked on one this morning. If you can't chew on 'em, what good are they? Oooooooh! Her hands are cold. Trying to give me frost bite! Well, at last I'm being relieved of this soppy old diaper! Why they ever made this thing so big I'll never know. This dumpy old bag they put on me gets in my way every time I try to go somewhere. Must be like a ball and chain so I can't crawl around. Boy, those parents think they're sharp! Oh! please, Lady . . . don't pour so much water in my ears. You tryin' to stop up my hearing or something? I'll be glad when supertime gets here. They starve you when you are a kid. No wonder my diapers stay wet. All they seem to give me is milk and water and juices. Gosh — runs through me like slippery soap. An' then when I get something solid, it's always that awful cereal stuff that sticks in my throat and makes me gag. They really try hard to make me kill myself. I've never seen any grown-ups eating that stuff. And I can't stand it when people come to make a fuss over me. All those old ladies that keep pinching my cheeks an' poking their bony fingers at me. You just wait'til next time! Hah! I can't wait! I'm gonna give them a surprise they'll never forget. Right on the ol' finger. Teethmarks they'll never get rid of!

—Lynn Boles

The Dessert

Well, here we are in this pitch black refrigerator right next to that smelly old salad with all its onions, garlic, and blue cheese dressing. Yuk! What a way to spend our last few hours together.

Ah, brightness! Oh no, she's coming for us. No, they have to eat the salad first. Thank heavens! I just get so jumpy whenever that light comes on. Now it doesn't smell so bad in here.

It surely is nice to know that in less than thirty minutes we'll be all split up into ten pieces. And in less than forty-five minutes we'll be in even smaller pieces in their stomachs back with that smelly old salad. Boy, what a way to go!

That's gratitude for you. We try our best to turn out all nice and fluffy, not too sweet and not too sour, a beautiful pie if I do say so myself, and this is the thanks we get. Oh you can be sure she'll get plenty of wonderful compliments. How mouth-watering we look! We look so good they hate for her to cut us. Well, if we look so good, why does she cut us? Why can't she leave us alone? At least let our last hour together be a happy one.

activities

Through extracurricular activities Mann students broadened their search for interests and for enjoyment. After-school sports activities received bountiful support from all Patriot fans.

The Homecoming game gave these fans much to be proud about when Mann defeated Hillcrest. On a cold night in November the senior girls stomped the juniors in the annual Powderpuff game.

A successful senior play, See How They Run, ran for two nights in November.

In February the Miss Talismann pageant and Black History Week gave Mann students a chance to see performances after school and during school.

Jack Frost drops in for Mann Homecoming

Winter took an early start this year when it arrived for Mann's homecoming. Fans, participants and sponsors wrapped up in their blankets, heavy coats, caps and gloves. During halftime principal Milton Diehl crowned Adele Cleveland 1972 homecoming queen. The student body chose her over three other senior attendants. After the game, in which Mann defeated Hillcrest, a homecoming dance was sponsored by the junior class. Music was provided for by the Pastels. Even though it was a cold night for a football game in the south, homecoming was made possible by many students and faculty. The 1972 homecoming, a night to remember, was one of the highlights of the year.

'See How They Run' races across stage

Under the direction of Mrs. Mary Garrett, the senior class once again presented their annual play. A comedy, See How They Run, was presented November 7 and 8 in the Mann auditorium to warm and responding audiences. Students not only participated in the on-stage portion; many contributed numerous hours as stage hands and helpers. 1. Mrs. Skillon, played by Kim Ellery, collapses on the sofa after drinking too much sherry. 2. Julie Kallum, Mrs. Penelope Toop, and Rick Roundtree, Mr. Humphrey, are shocked by the sudden entrance of Penelope's Uncle Dudley. Uncle Dudley was a very dignified bishop during the majority of the play, and Bill DeLoache, who played the part, enjoyed the rambunctious scenes. 3. The flirtatious maid Ida, Mimi Gordon, clears the table acting as though she suspects nothing. 4. Buck Wearn as Mr. Toop, never expected the terrible events to come as he kisses Penelope goodbye. 5. Mr. Toop staggers across the stage after the Russian attacks him and takes his clothes. 6. During the class assemblies, Alan Nunnally and Curry Thrailkill take a break backstage after helping out. 7. A mad chase develops as Ida and Penelope look on. 8. In the third act, Penelope's life is threatened by a Russian spy, played by Eugene Berger. 9. ### Miss Talismann — Adele Cleveland

The junior class under the leadership of president Terri Stone presented a successful Miss Talismann pageant in early February. Previously this show had been the property of the publications department.

Juniors chose "Over the Rainbow" as the pageant theme. To elaborate the theme Pam Cureton sang the title song.

Sixty-nine girls paraded across the stage on the first night of the contest emceed by Jim Burnside. The parade of beauties was interspersed by talent from members of the student body. At the end of the first night performance 17 lovelies had been tapped by a panel of judges to return for the second night.

In a thrilling climax the judges selected the class beauties and the seventh Miss Talismann, to be crowned by Brenda Crawford 1972 Miss Talismann.

Sports

Enthusiastic fans cheered the Mann teams on through thrilling victories and narrow defeats. The sports activities in all areas were commendable and exciting, as Mann stepped up further in the field of athletic achievement.

Patriots end '72 season with 6 wins, 5 losses

The Mann Patriots' football ended the '72 season with a 6-5 record, the second consecutive winning season for the Patriots. This year's team moved into a different 4-A region which introduced new competition to the '72 schedule with the likes of Greenwood and Laurens.

Practice began early in August with over 40 boys out for the varsity. For the first time, Mann held its football camp away from school, at North Myrtle Beach. While at the three day camp, the Patriots scrimmaged Myrtle Beach, North Myrtle Beach and Sumter High, sweeping all three games.

Injuries to key players hampered the team all year. Peter Rizzo suffered a broken collarbone during a three way pre-season scrimmage with Belton-Honea Path and Wren. He was to remain on the injured list until the last game of the season when he returned as starting quarterback against Wade Hampton. Steve Cloud, one of the key backs, also suffered an injury which was to keep him out of several games. Other players suffering injuries this year were Craig Smith, Mike Gosnell, Paul Hartley, Stanley Clinkscale, Melvin Bennett and George Campbell.

Patriots stomp Generals twice in 1972; 8-0, 41-7

The '72 grid season began with a 20-6 win over Boiling Springs, a new opponent this season. Scoring in this game was divided between Steve Cloud, Jim Wyman, and Stanley Clinkscale. Mann's second game showed the promise of things to come as the Pats came up with a 15-10 win over the Greenville Red Raiders. This win seemed to enhance hopes that this was the year for Mann to go to the state championship, but this hope was dampened when Mann was defeated 27-6 by Airport High of Columbia. Airport had been ranked eighth in the state. The Patriot gridders returned to the winner's column on September 22 when for the first time ever Mann defeated Wade Hampton by a score of 8-0.

1. Trainers Noland Meyers and Rick Rountree stand ready to assist any injured player. 2. Jim Wyman is wrestled to the ground while Doug and Jeff Mills provide blocking. 3. Mark Wells takes off downfield as he fields a punt in the latter stages of the game. 4. Dwight Hailstock gains yardage on an end sweep. 5. Steve Godfrey finds time to lean on Bill Morton's shoulder while the game continues. The trainers were kept very busy this year, as the footballers suffered numerous injuries. At least eight varsity players were out for part of the season with various impairments.

Pat defense sparkles; opponents average only 10 points per game

The most disappointing defeat for Mann came against the Eastside Eagles, a 13-12 conference loss, in which Eastside played brilliantly against a sagging Patriot eleven.

Mann played another Eagle team on October 6, the Eagles of Greenwood, a highly rated team this year. The Patriots lost this game 13-0 on two 4th quarter scores. The Pats, however, halted their losing streak with a 14-13 win over Parker, sparked by the brilliant running of Mark Wells and Steve Cloud.

Mann's homecoming was highlighted by a 13-0 defeat of Hillcrest, with near perfect offensive and defensive play by the Patriot gridders. Greer, however, proved too powerful for the Mann team, beating them 13-7 in an important conference game.

Mann's last game with Easley was canceled after the Greenwaves won the regional championship. A rematch with WHHS was lined up and the Mann fans saw what an unleashed Patriot team could do as it blitzed the Wade Hampton gridders for 41 points before the last home crowd.

B and C teams suffer disappointing seasons

The '72 Mann B-team, under the leadership of coach Ronnie Moore, had a season marred by losses. The team won only one game, this one being a hard fought battle with arch rival Wade Hampton. The team also suffered from injuries to many key players including Scott Armstrong, Billy Heath, John Topper and Carl Rehling.

The C-team suffered from inexperience for the most part this year. Coaches Ken Peake and Bill Kendall worked with the "Rinks," teaching them fundamental football to prepare them for the B-team and varsity. The biggest accomplishment for the team came when they defeated Greer 14-0. The C-team proved to be the only Mann grid team to defeat Greer. Hopefully, the C-team got the needed experience to make next year's B-team good.

Mann roundballers win crucial games this year

Mann fielded a vastly improved basketball team this year, much to the surprise of many Patriot supporters. The team was strengthened by the return of veteran varsity players Peter Rizzo, Bruce Martin, Dwight Hailstock, Eddie Young, and Whit Whitmer. Former B-teamers Larry Poole, Jimmy Gray, James Cleveland and Prince Phelps contributed needed experience. However, the loss of Mike Yeargin, ineligible for the first semester, left the team without a strong, experienced, big man. Bobby Johnston, new to the basketball scene at Mann, helped out at center.

1. Lee Kennedy shoots as several Greenville players watch. 2. Jimmy Gray fires a ten foot jumper. 3. Bruce Martin pumps one in from midcourt. 4. Larry Poole makes a lay-up look easy. 5. Whit Whitmire drives for the goal. 6. Eddie Young and Larry Poole battle under the boards. 7. Peter Rizzo brings the ball down-court and gives the play to the rest of the team.

Mann's conference play improves greatly in '73

Mann began the '72-'73 basketball season on a winning note by defeating Greenville. The roundballers followed this win with another over Gaffney and went into the Christmas tournament with an unblemished 2-0 mark. Playing Wade Hampton in the opening round the Patriots suffered their first setback of the year. They came back strong, however, and walked away with the consolation trophy by beating Carolina and Parker. After losing a heartbreaker to Gaffney, 59-55, the Pats gained two straight wins over Eastside. With a win over Laurens, but losses to Wade Hampton, Parker, and Hillcrest, the mid-season record dropped to 7-5 overall, and 4-3 in the conference.

1. Eddie Young drives for the basket in the Christmas tournament. 2. Peter Rizzo shoots over two Generals. 3. Larry Poole fires over Eddie Young. 4. Eddie Young fakes off an opponent and takes a shot. 5. The Mann varsity warms up before a game in the Christmas Tournament. 6. Larry Poole goes up high to pull down a rebound. 7. Whit Whitmire, Bruce Martin and the rest of the starting line-up huddle before the start of a game.

Surprising roundballers attain numerous victories; 16-8 mark

The Patriots finished the season strong, winning seven of their last eleven games. They beat Greenwood easily, but lost a heartbreaker to Greer after leading all the way. The Pats played even with Wade Hampton till the fourth quarter, finally losing by 12. Mike Yeargin returned against Laurens and led the team to four straight wins, including a massacre of Greenville, when the Patriots went ahead by thirty in the first half and finally won 95-62. Mann entered the conference tourney with high hopes, despite an unexpected loss to Greenwood, 59-58. They beat Greer handily, but lost all hope of a state championship when Wade Hampton put down the Pats in a thriller, 53-50.

1. Peter Rizzo completes a drive after stealing the basketball from a Carolina player. 2. Bruce Martin takes a shot from the outside as an opponent attempts to block the ball. 3. Mann roundballers, Jimmy Gray and Larry Poole, battle an opponent for a rebound during a home game. 4. Larry Poole concentrates on the basket after releasing the ball, avoiding a red raider. 5. Whit Whitmer banks one off the board over a Greenville raider. 6. Coach Moore demonstrates a play to team members during halftime at one of the games.

*B-team has 15-6 record;
flu frustrates wrestlers*

1. Kevin Short fakes to throw his opponent off guard. 2. Later Short attempts to steal the inbounds pass from a Hillcrest player. 3. The 1973 varsity wrestlers included: (l. to r.) James Edwards, Jack Brown, Bret Saunders, David Case, Butch Wheeler, Steve Godfrey, Dean Drummond, George Campbell, Craig Blackwell, and Darryl Cook. 4. A Mann wrestler puts the pin on his opponent. 5. A Mann wrestler is taken down, although the Pats went on to beat Christ School, the opponent. 6. Jack Brown gets points for an escape. 7. Whit Cantey drives for a lay-up. 8. Alan Garlington shoots to add points to a Mann victory.

Donaldson center provides vocational training for numerous Mann students who go there to work three periods a day. 1. Mann students remove an engine in auto mechanics. 2. Instructor W. J. Walker helps Claustin Allen build a curved corner in bricklaying. 3. Rene Merritt and a Carolina student roll Barbara Edge's hair in cosmetology. 4. Freddy Martin works to finish a flue in brick masonry.

Faculty

An exciting and knowledgeable approach to education existed at Mann this year. By combined efforts of new faculty members and members already familiar with life at Mann, innovative courses and programs resulted.

Another new administration attacks problems of unrest

1. Mr. Alan Kyber, assistant principal, speaks at an assembly. 2. Mr. Milton Diehl, principal, answers questions during an assembly. 3. Talking with Mr. Willis Crosby, ombudsman, about racial problems is one of Mr. Diehl's many jobs. 4. Mrs. Willene Allen, nurse, and Mrs. Anne Williams, secretary, work in the office. 5, 6. Writing out a late permit for students is one of Mr. Herbert Blassingale's many tasks. Mr. Blassingale is one of the new assistant principals. 7. Working together as counselors is Miss Lillian Simpson and Mrs. Helen Smalls' job. 8. Miss Marilyn Knight and Miss Simpson have the job of looking up students in the student file.

Faculty makes suggestions for school improvements

This year the faculty of J. L. Mann became more involved with the problems of students. Faculty meetings were a place to discuss these problems and to make suggestions on how to solve them. The drug problem, boredom in the classroom and overcrowding at lunch periods came under discussion. The problems were not always solved but conditions were improved. Student rap sessions were set up and shorter classes with longer lunch shifts were put into effect. Sometimes at the faculty meetings, teachers tried constructing a figure of J. L. Mann with tinker toys. At one faculty meeting, teachers used tinker toys to demonstrate a lesson in group dynamics. The purpose of the project was to see how well the teachers participated in groups. Some groups had leaders while others did not. An observer for each group watched the teachers construct the school figure and then made a report on each of the faculty member's actions. 1. Mr. Lathem seems to be intrigued with what is going on at the meeting. 2. Mrs. Baldwin concentrates on something puzzling. 3. Mrs. Joy Martin, a new faculty member of the science department, listens attentively. 4. Mr. Hugh Gilchrist tries to construct a figure of the school. 5. Mr. Landrum spends time relaxing with a Coca-Cola while attending a faculty meeting. 6. Mrs. Davis takes notes of suggestions made at the faculty meeting. 7. Playing with tinker toys is something new for Mrs. Dawsey as she is given the chance to try to construct a figure of the school. Mrs. Dawsey was observed as being one of the active teachers in the groups.

*Faculty participates in

5

1. Mr. Curtis Landrum stands by in case of an emergency at a pep rally. 2. Mrs. Shirley Campbell and Mr. Robby Miller take a lunch break. 3. Awaiting the assignment of students is a boring task for Mr. Donald Sturkie, Mr. George Lathem and Mr. Lawrence Dillard on the first day of school. 4. Mrs. Sharon Whitley and Mrs. Genevieve Fuller wait for the bell to ring after a fire drill. 5. Mr. Dillard and Mr. David Green spend lunch time in the cafeteria. 6. Mrs. Virginia Vanstory blows up a balloon for homecoming decorations. 7. Mr. John Strawhorn attended the Greenville County school board meeting. The meeting was one of the most controversial ever held. It was held in the J. L. Mann library. The subject of the program was the issue concerning certain books that were considered to be pornographic material by some parents. An advisory committee which investigated the matter upheld the board's policy.

Teachers give students opportunities to expand

1. Mr. Zeis, a student teacher for Mr. Gilchrist, prepares the class for a biology experiment. 2. Coach Lunceford gives one of his students a pep talk in between classes. 3. Mrs. Ragland, a foreign language teacher, prepares her class for exercises in Spanish. 4. Miss Jones, a new member of the music department, directs her chorus students. 5. Sitting in a comfortable position while teaching is one of the characteristics of Mr. Norwood, a faculty member of the math department. 6. During his spare time, which seems to be between classes, Mr. Miller prepares his lesson for his next physical science class. 7. Coach Peake finds time in between classes to talk with Issaic Yeargin. The 1972-73 Mann faculty consisted of many new faces. They found that Mann had a lot to offer. Mrs. Burkhalter, a member of the English Department commented, "The student body is quite unique in its wide diversification; it is also unique in its ability to achieve unity in spite of its diversification."

Faculty members support extra curricular activities

1. Mrs. Fuller has an edge on her typing students as she grades papers as soon as her students like Mark Wells hand them in. 2. Mrs. Richardson waits for a good shot for a picture to put in the yearbook. 3. This year's new psychology and chemistry teacher, Mr. Ground waits in the gym on orientation day. 4. Besides coaching basketball and teaching civics, Coach Moore sells milk on the first lunch shift. 5. Mr. David Green, the new band teacher, looks worried after talking to one of his band members. Besides being Mann's new band director, Mr. Green teaches Jazz Ensemble, Music Appreciation and Music Theory. He also sponsored the band club. 6. Mr. Sturkie waits in the back of the auditorium during an eleventh grade assembly. A U.S. history and civics teacher, he also sponsored one of the rap sessions.

After a hectic day, Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Guest clean up and begin preparations for tomorrow's meal. 7. Mrs. Rhodes prepares food for the many hungry students. 8. At the beginning of the year, Mr. Young helps Mrs. Reagan unpack books for various classes.

reference

The student body at Mann faced the same problems as previous Mann students — searching for themselves and the answers to their questions. They made efforts to change what they didn't like, but they did it as a student body of seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

The year started officially for the seniors with a recognition ceremony. College night, the senior play, powderpuff football and the crowning of the senior beauty as Miss Talisman were some of the activities seniors enjoyed.

Juniors fought the annual PSAT and planned the Junior-Senior Prom. Sophomores and freshmen became more involved in the school, its problems and its benefits. Searching for a way to come together as a student body made students stronger.

That's why Duke Power has been working on environmental protection for nearly 50 years.

Today our staff of scientists includes chemists, foresters, a fisheries biologist, a health physicist, a public health sanitarian, a meteorologist and others.

To learn how they're helping you, ask for our booklet on the environment. It's free at your local Duke Power office.

Involvement

If you like things mechanical, like to tinker with motors, and test your ingenuity and creativity by making or repairing things, you may have the makings of a good engineer.

Sirrine is a firm of consulting engineers . . . men who have the capability and the training to design and make things happen. One of Sirrine's biggest jobs is helping industry to better control water and air pollution.

If you seek such involvement, start now on a program to prepare yourself with a good solid education. Who knows? You may some day be just the kind of man this nation, and Sirrine, needs.

For Mature Persons Only!

Well, big shit, isn't it? Six years at that big dung heap we "lovingly call our Alma Mater" --- oh, well, on to bigger and better things this summer + next fall. I think we both feel a bit gyped by it all - dumb-ass teachers, stupid rules, boring classes + requirements, cruddy atmosphere around school - the whole bit. Maybe six years is too long to stay in one set of buildings, stagnating in the same mass of people without much change, despite disintegration (We're still segregated - and no hope of bridging the gap! (aka)). Well, we've had our fun despite the garbage Atlanta, staying out in the tent with the "Strawberry Southern People", the airport, the prep rooms + films, chorus, plays and stuff - Alice Cooper show, phones, etc. hope THE turns out all right - hope both of us can get motivated for once - see you around the world!

Closing

When a school year is over one should look back. One should also question. "What was I trying to achieve? Have I achieved it?" He must decide if he accomplished his goal, and if so, was it worth the effort. Only when he knows these answers can he search further.

For this year the search is ended. 1972-73 is a memory. We have moved a little closer to achieving those elusive goals: security, happiness and understanding. But now it is time to begin again. Another search must start.

Mike,
Anything I
put in here is going to sound so stereo-typed!
Now come words are so inadequate? Mike, what would I have done without you to cheer me up when I needed it? Chorus will be such an empty period next year...

I get depressed whenever of Norfolk, "Manglers", all-State and all the great times we had! Mike, you've really been like a big brother to me this year and I love you for it!

Thanks so very much for all you've done!

Terrific year next year and God bless you in everything!
Love,

Someday,
P.S. If I ever get up enough
nerve, I'll take you up on that important proposition!

Mike, its
been a long year in here the summer
Bill Marshall

Mike,
We had a great time
last year and this year
you're a million laughs
Hope to see a lot more
you. - Ron Hudgem

Mike,
You really are a great guy, ever since the 7th grade. Good luck and come to see me sometime.

Bill

Mike, you are a lot of fun, especially in psychology.
Also your 63 TR, was hell
on wheels, Barry

Mike,
you are almost finished school. I can't believe it.

You still seem like the same
"little Mike" that used to swim for flowers and then entertain everybody on the bus. I hope you always have that fantastic personality!

Cause you'll never get anywhere on your looks!
I am just kidding! I hope summer and always!

to see you around!

Susan Layton

Michael X.
our. I can hardly believe it!
remember all the spastic things
we did in geometry like HO-and gorgak. I really hope you get far in whatever you want to do. But I really hope you get farther than a graveyard.
Don't forget me.

MIKE, I'D NOT CRAZY!

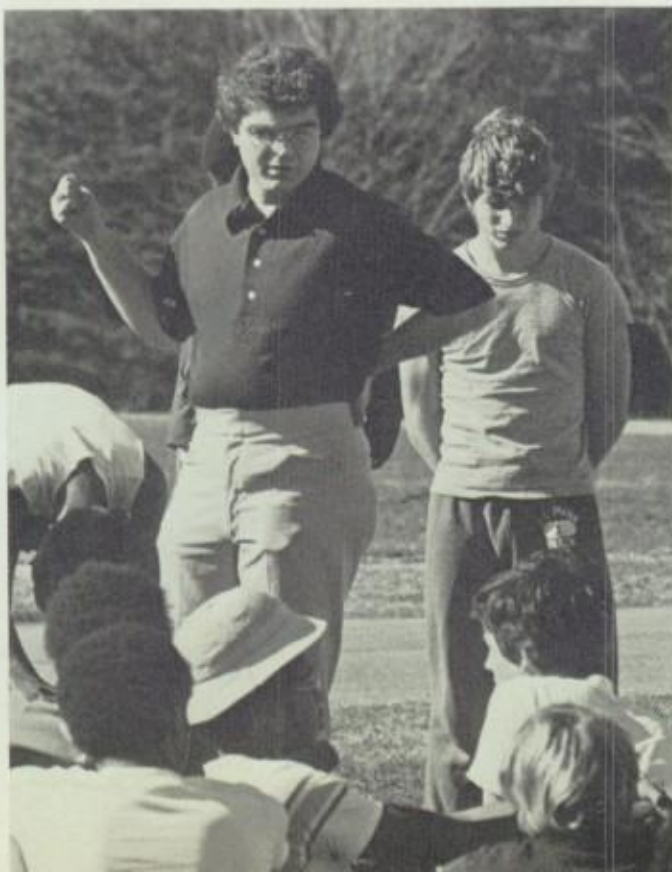

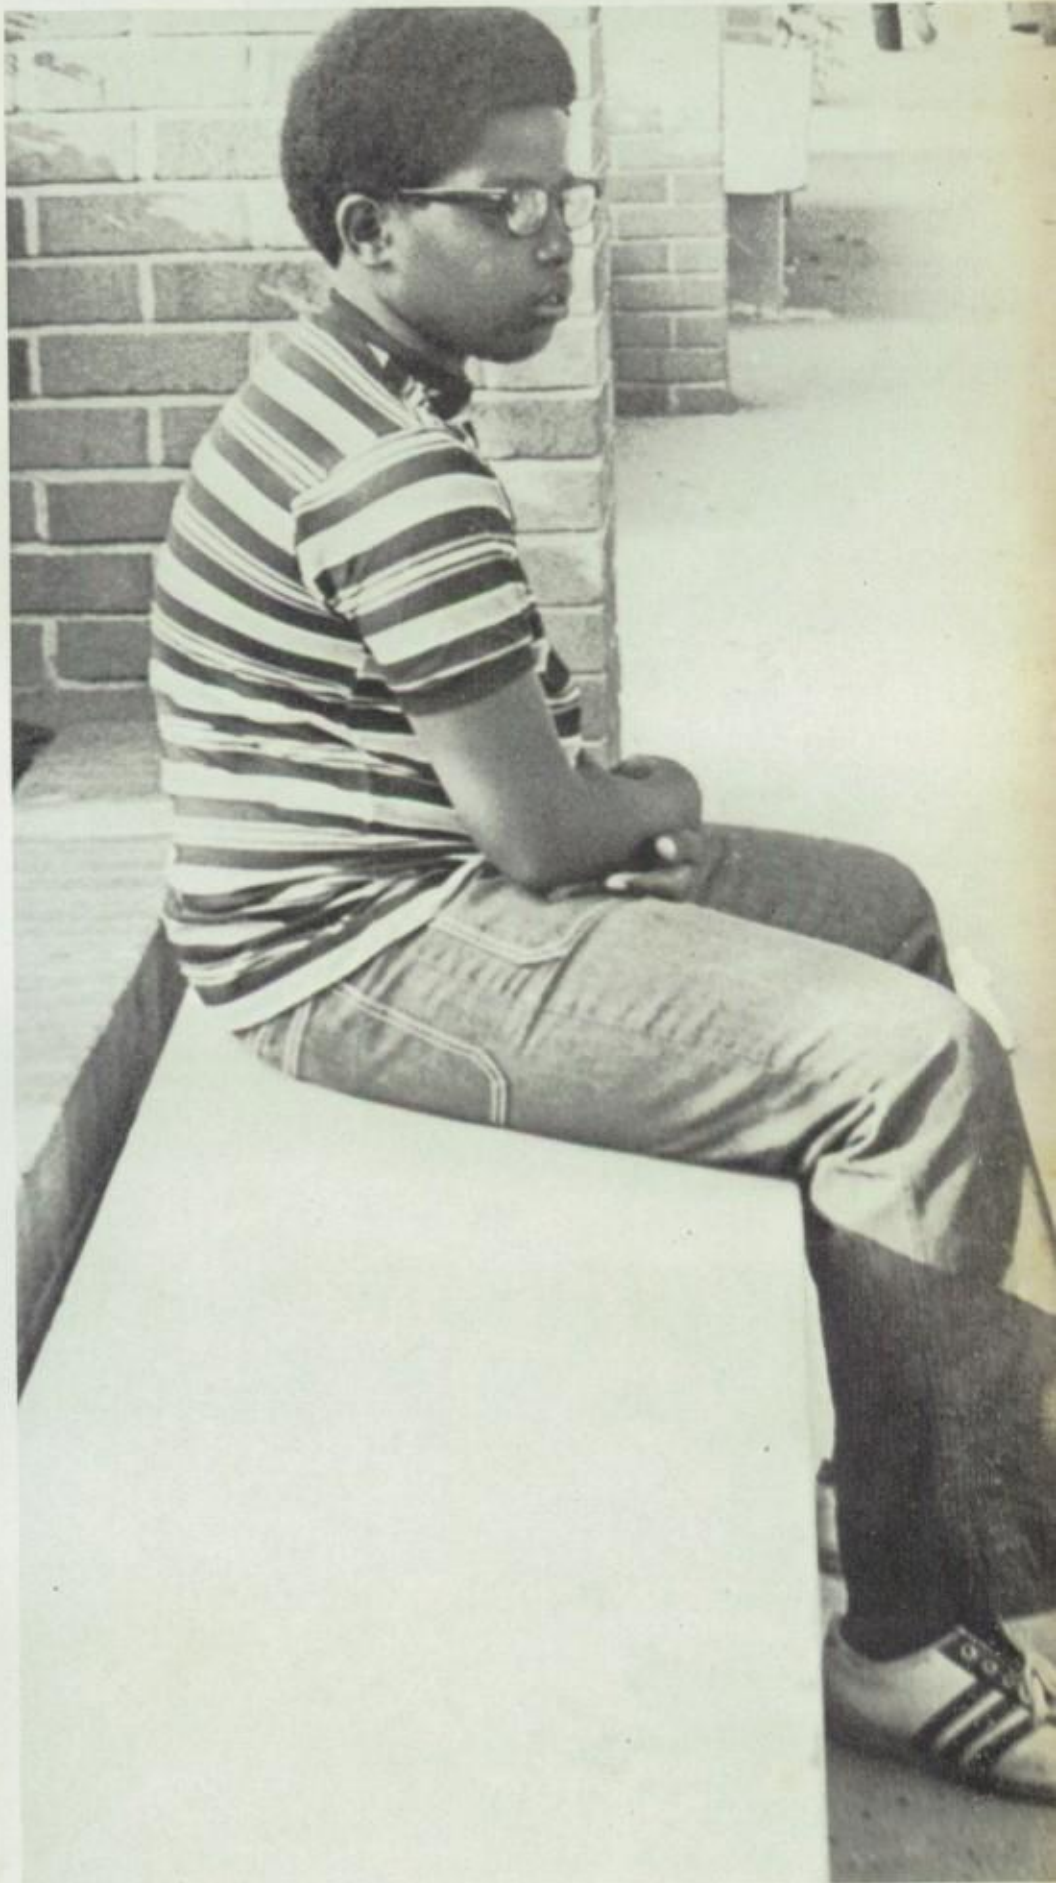

Mike
well you made
this class stay alive and calls. If your noses
the whole year. Rick.

Mike
Good luck
in "74"

Mann track men roll up impressive season score

The track team placed second in the regional meet and they placed first in the county meet. In the upper state meet, they were represented in 13 out of the 16 events. Five men qualified for the state tournament, Stanley Clinkscale, Melvin Bennett, Peter Rizzo, Mark Wells as members of the 440 relay, and Larry Poole who represented Mann in the 880 yard run.

Baseball team finishes with creditable record

The baseball team ended the year with an average record, 7-7. One of these losses was a forfeit, however, for a number of the team lost their way to the Hillcrest ball park — an exceptionally evasive location. Leading hitters on the team were Mike Cartee, Albert Powell, Billy Burns and Dwight Hailstock. Dwight was also a leading fielder along with Mike Foster. This year's pitchers were Jimmy Shields, Royce Brown, and Jeff Siefert. These young men will be returning next year.

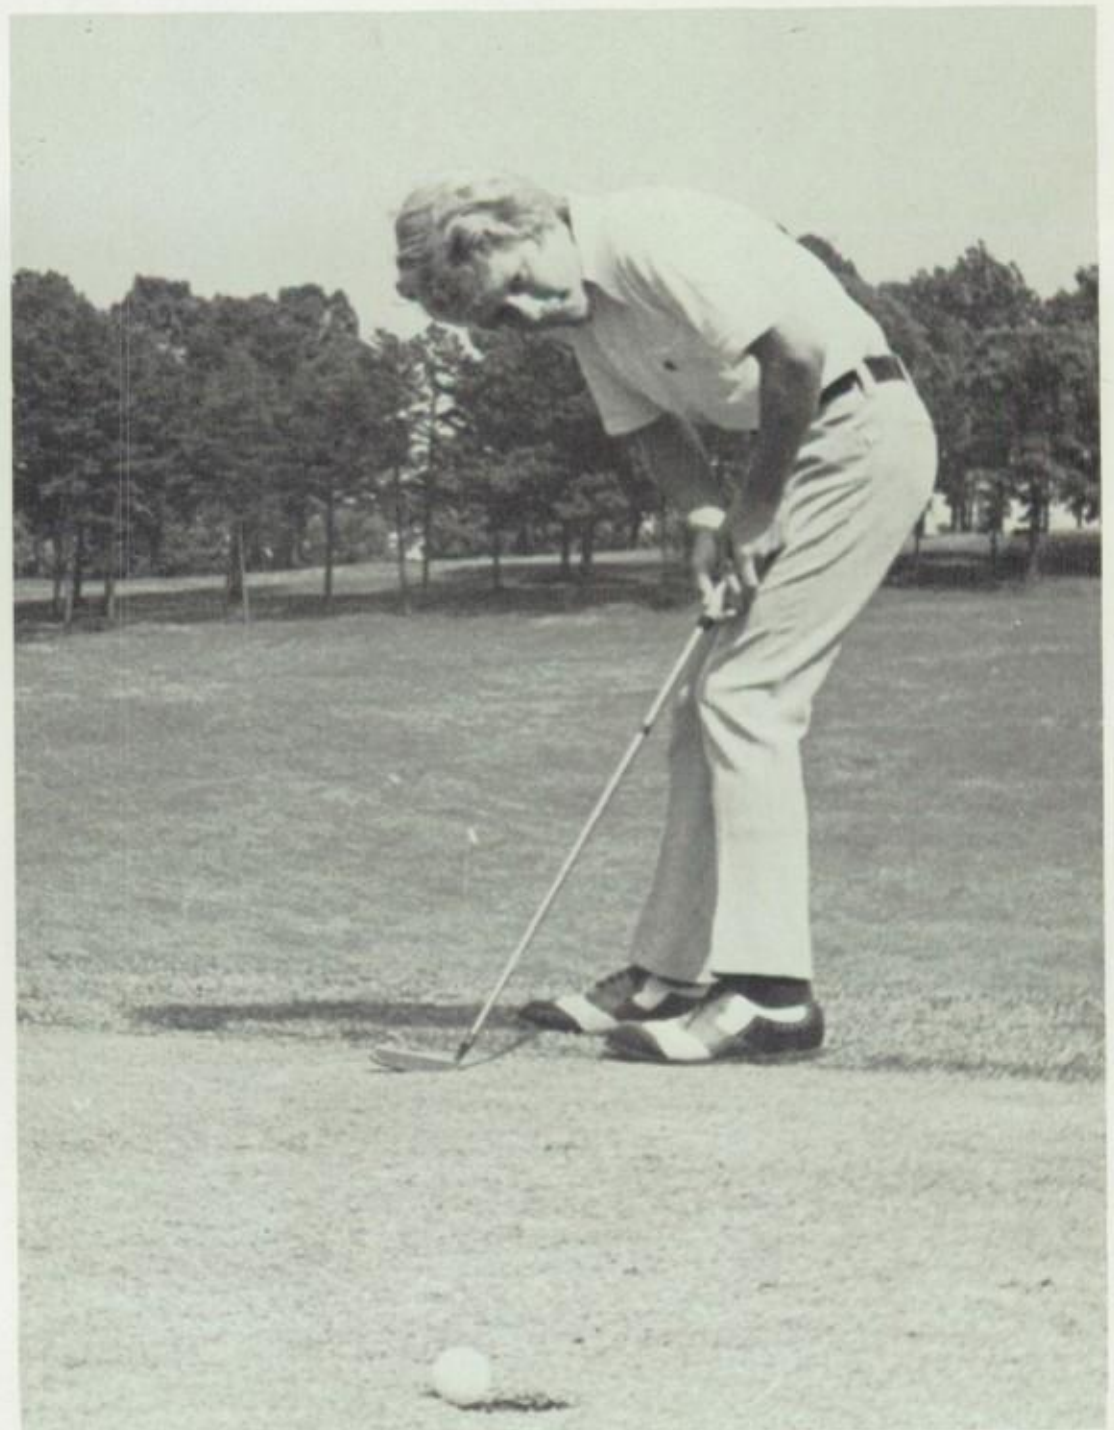

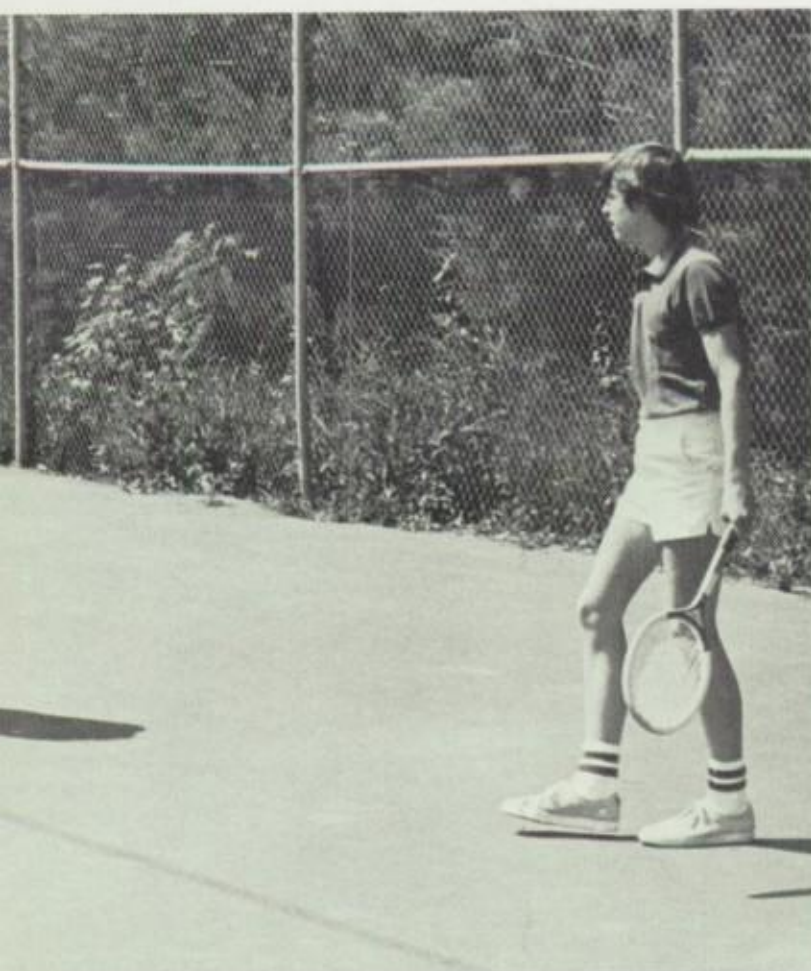

This year's tennis team would like to forget their year if possible, but they are looking forward to next year, and with a little experience, and some age should be ready to take over. The golf team was happy to find out that Whit Whitmer won a golf scholarship at Tennessee, and he also achieved the medalist award for the team.

Thespians show style by staging popular farce

The Mann Thespian troupe did an excellent job with Fred Carmichael's mystery-farce, "Any Number Can Die." Both the acting and the stage setting were superb.

The cast included Landis Griffeth, Buck Wearn, Rachel Fleming, Noland Meyers, Vickie Edwards, Mimi Gordon, Alan Nunnally, Stephen Peet, Stephen Howell, and Mary Lynn McGuire. The setting was a lonely mansion in the Bahamas during a tropical storm. The play was directed by Mrs. Mary Garrett who is also the sponsor of the troupe.

Upperclassmen dance at annual jr - sr prom

The junior class under the leadership of President Terri Stone did a remarkable job of entertaining the seniors at the annual prom. The dance was held at the Sheraton Motor Inn, and the ball room in the hotel provided a more intimate setting than formerly. Before the dance those juniors and seniors who wished had their pictures made at Cleveland park.

Tuesday graduation follows Monday's awards program

1. Graduation took place in Memorial auditorium at 8 p.m. 2. Landis Griffeth and Kenneth Ham led the graduation march carrying the national and the state flags. 3. Steve Brown receives some last minute advice from his sister Laura, who made the graduation trip last year. 4. John Carter, class president reads a note from the class sponsor, Mrs. Mary Garrett, before the seniors start the final walk. 5. After Awards Day on Monday the seniors practiced for graduation. 6. At Awards Day, Mr. Lathem presents Mimi Wyche and Steve Brown Good Citizenship awards. 7. At Memorial Auditorium, each graduate went to the stage to receive his diploma. 8. Before the march started Mr. Blassengale, Mr. Diehl, Mrs. Wilson, and Mr. Lathem, who participated in the faculty procession, wait for the signal to go in.

End of school brings last activities, memories

A tornado which touched down in the Greenville area on May 24 delayed the opening of school the next day. This also caused a multitude of absences on that rainy Monday, but some hardy souls managed to struggle in for the final review before exams. After exams, the teachers celebrated with a luncheon to honor Miss Volina Wilson who retired this year. Then came the last day, and report cards. The year 1972-73 drifted to a close.

Mike,
you are by far
the funniest person
I have ever met or will meet in the future.
I never will understand how Miss Jones got up with you! You sure did make class interesting, though.
'But, luck in the graveyard (or wherever) and don't waste that beautiful voice of yours!
Love,
Lattie
(Give the "Senator" my regards!)

MIKE,
you had another week with it a month of hell, good luck in the future and I hope you meet many more a deal better

Peace Baby,
Hal

P.S. I would be glad to know you
as my mention
